The Building Of The Hungarian Parliament

This is the parliament building. My husband took this picture, but when and on what occasion, I don't know, so I don't know when it was taken. Imre took photos weekly. Not regularly, but there was a time when he took photographs a lot. Back then, it wasn't film, but cassettes, made of glass, which he developed. He put them in the sun to develop. It wasn't often, but he did do this. He has a picture of our eldest daughter, in which she is studying.
