

The Gravestone On Yevgenia Kozak 's Sister Lubov Moshkovich

The gravestone on my sister Lubov Moshkovich's grave, with inscriptions in Hebrew and Russian. My sister Luba married shoemaker Moshkovich, a Jewish man from Odessa in the early 1950s. She lived with her husband and son in Khust in Subcarpathia. My sister Luba died from cancer in Khust in 1981. She was buried in the town cemetery there. She was 50 years old. My parents and sister were buried in the Jewish cemetery following all Jewish traditions. My sister's husband and their sons Semyon and Felix moved to Israel in the late 1980s.
