

Blanka Gallo's Sister Margit Frankel

My sister Margit in the 1930s. The photo was made in the photo studio of Hunyady and Malachovsky in Nyiregyhaza.

Margit was born in 1914. She got married to Erno Frankel from Kassa (today Kosice, in Slovakia). He had a paint store in Slovakia, after he went back to Kassa - as that was on Hungarian territory -, he traveled.

(Margit's home) was completely kosher. She did not have (a wig) but at home, in our parents' house she wore a scarf.

And it is typical of the family's closeness that in the final year (in 1944) Gitta, like Margit, came back with her children so that they could be with the parents.

And they were all deported together - and Margit and her little daughter did not return.
