

Oro Aroyo At A Celebration In The Ma'abarot Kibbutz

I have been to Israel four times. Since I was a member of the Communist Party, it was not a problem for me to go there. But always before I left, some people from the intelligence service came and asked me where I was going. I only told them that I did not know Israel and went only to see my brothers. My first impression from Israel was that the country was making progress. Everything was in the process of construction. I went there for the first time in 1952 together with my husband. I was visiting my brothers, who welcomed me warmly. We, however, decided not to remain in Israel, because we felt distant from the mentality of the people living there and we were very poor.
