

Sidy Goldbergerova

This picture shows my mother, Sidy Goldbergerova, née Lubovicova, before the war. My mother was born in 1900 in Trstena. I don't know when she died. She was deported and after that we didn't find out any more about her. My parents spoke Hungarian amongst each other. With us children they spoke Slovak. Well, and as far as my father goes, I'd say he was a skirt-chaser. You know, he married my mother because she was expecting me. My mother was of a mild nature, you could say even introverted. She even wouldn't go out on the street by herself.
