

On The Beach

This was the open air swimming pool in Matyasfold. It still exists, but it was used by the Russians and it is supposedly going to be tidied up soon. This picture must have been taken towards the end of the 1930s. This me (the first on the right) I don't know about the other two. We didn't go to this outdoor pool very often, because the water was very cold. We might have gone once or twice in the summertime. We went to the pool in Cinkota.