

Liberty Bridge

I can't say anything about this picture, it was taken by my husband for sure, but when and exactly where, I don't know. It was probably on the Danube, between Szabadsag bridge and Erzsebet bridge. Imre took photos weekly. Not regularly, but there was a time when he took photographs a lot. Back then, it wasn't film, but cassettes, made of glass, which he developed. He put them in the sun to develop. It wasn't often, but he did do this. He has a picture of our eldest daughter, in which she is studying.
