

Laszlo Spiegler's 90th Birthday

This is a picture from the celebration of my 90th birthday in Paradfurdo. I'm on the right, with the manager of the place where we celebrated, in the center, and an acquaintance of mine. I have been going to Paradfurdo [a holiday resort in the Matra mountain] every year since my wife died. I love going there, the company is really good. The same people gather here every year, we have good talks, we play cards together. I also manage eating [in a more or less kosher way] here: I don't eat pork and I try not to mix dairy and meat products. They remembered my 90th birthday and it was celebrated together with the birthday of this acquaintance. The manager gave us the presents we hold on this picture.
