

A Jewish House In Bitola That Was Used For Partisan Activities During The War

This house was located in the Bajir neighborhood. I do not remember the owner's name but his nickname was patike (slipper). This house was also used by the partisans during the war. I went back to Bitola and took this picture for documentation for the history of the city of Bitola and of Macedonia.