

Erzsebet Rosenberg And Friends

This photo was taken on an excursion to somewhere near Tiszakerecseny [village in Hungary], where there was a big forest in which we also had a plot.

We often made daytrips there with family and friends. The picture was taken in the 1930s. The man is Moric Grun, a lumber seller.

The girl on the far right is Magda Halasz, a teacher from Vari, a Jewish girl who converted to Christianity after the war, and graduated from the Law University.

The second from the right is my sister Bozsi [Erzsebet Rosenberg], who died in Prague, in the summer of 1945, on the way home from Auschwitz.